Knowlton, 9th March, 1898.

Sydney Fisher

The Brome County Historical Society.

On Aug. 18, 1897, a meeting was held in West Brome, near the farm of Eben Miltimore. This was presided over by the promoter of the movement, Lester Ball, Esq., of Brome. It took the form of a picnic, in a grove on the farm of Eben Miltimore.

A platform was erected and seats provided. The speakers were: Judge Foster, Hon. Justice Lynch, Hon. Sydney Fisher, Hon. H. Thos. Duffy, and the Rev. Ernest M. Taylor, and Col. Patten.

Steps were taken to form a Historical Society, first for the Township, and, later, for the County of Brome.

The officers selected at this time were:—Honorary Presidents, Lester Ball, Brome; and Judge Foster, Knowlton; President, Hon. Justice Lynch; Secretary-Treasurer, the Rev. Ernest M. Taylor, M.A., Knowlton; Directors for Brome Township, Hon. S. A. Fisher, Col. Patten, Jeremiah Pettes and James C. Pettes, of West Brome.

The Knowlton band was in attendance. And this centennial celebration of the issuance of Letters Patent was considered a very successful effort.

W. W. LYNCH,
President.

ERNEST M. TAYLOR,
Secretary-Treas.

On Oct. 2, 1897, a remarkably well attended and in every way successful celebration was held for the Township of Potton. This was held in Mansonville.

L. A. Perkins, Esq., Collector of Internal Revenue, presided.

The speakers were:—D. A. Manson, Esq., Hon. H. T. Duffy, Minister of Public Works; the Rev. E. I. Rexford, Judge Foster, Hon. Justice Lynch, the Rev. W. P. Chambers, and the Rev. Ernest M. Taylor.

The Potton Volunteers were out in martial array. A museum of relics was opened on the common. The Knowlton Band was in attendance, and local musicians added to the day's enjoyment. The day was faultlessly fine.

The Potton Directors for the Brome County Historical Society selected by popular vote were:—J. P. Noyes, Esq., a native of Potton, now Prothonotary of the District of Bedford; Walter Lynch, Esq., Collector of Customs; D. A. Manson, Esq., ex-M.P. of Brome County; and F. F. Soule, to whom much of the success of the arrangements was due.

W. W. LYNCH,
President.

ERNEST M. TAYLOR,
Secretary.

On Oct. 6, 1897, at a meeting, largely attended, in Millington, in Place Hall, the following were selected to take charge of matters historical for East Bolton:—Harvey Austin, Aylmer Place; David Randall, and Frank Channell.

As it was thought desirable to place some monumental slab on the site of the first settlement in Brome, the circulars on fyle marked "A," were issued in December. To these there was a generous response, and a concert was held at the time appointed, Jan. 13, 1898, in Brome, which was an unqualified success.

On the platform were:—Hon. Judge Lynch, President; Honorary Presidents, Lester Ball, Esq., and Samuel Foster, Esq., and Messrs. J. C. Pettes and Col. O. P. Patten, and the Secretary-Treasurer, the Rev. Ernest M. Taylor. The following is the programme which was presented:—

1. Overture—Brome Orchestra.
2. Chairman's Address.
3. Knowlton Orchestra.
4. Song, by Dr. Lambly.
5. Remarks, by the Secretary.
6. Knowlton Orchestra.
7. An Address, by Judge Foster
8. Song, by Mr. E. P. Stevens
9. Brome Orchestra.
10. Violin Duett, by Mrs. Fay and Miss Curtis.
11. Song, by Mrs. Judge Lynch
12. An Address, by Col. O. P. Patten.
13. Song, by George L. Duncan.
14. Knowlton Orchestra, and God Save the King.

The audience was large, attentive and appreciative, and as it was announced that for the present the membership fee would be only twenty-five cents, the Secretary was authorized to inscribe the following as members of the Brome County Historical Society, and the fees were by the following paid:—Hon. Judge Lynch, Samuel W. Foster, Azro Chandler, Mrs. Edgar Chapman, Charles Nelson Ruiter, Julius M. Ruiter, Ernest S. Ball, Merrill Davis, Mrs. Nathaniel Pettes, William Chapman, John C. Secretary-Treasurer.

On the 9th of March, 1898, in accordance with a notice which had been published in several of the newspapers circulated in the district of Bedford, a meeting of the Brome County Historical Society was held in the Pettes Memorial Hall.

There were present, Hon. Justice Lynch, President; Lester Ball, Esq., and Mr. S. W. Foster, Honorary Presidents; James C. Pettes, Brome, Director; Col. O. P. Patten, Brome, Director; Mr. F. A. Knowlton, Mrs. Nathaniel Pettes, and Mrs. Shufelt, and Rev. Ernest M. Taylor, Secretary-Treasurer.

The President reported that the County Council had cordially consented to the organization and consequent incorporation of the Society. He deposited one copy of the document leading to incorporation with the Secretary.

The question of the Brome Monument came up, and, on motion of Col. Patton, seconded by Mr. Ball, the following were appointed as the committee to make such arrangements as could be made provisionally, and report to the Society:—

Monument Committee—The President, the Secretary, Judge Foster, Mr. J. C. Pettes, and Mr. Eben Miltimore.—Carried.

Constitution and By-Laws.—It was moved by Judge Foster and seconded by Mr. James Pettes, that the President, the Secretary and Col. Patten, be a committee to draft the constitution and by-laws.—Carried.

History.—The question of a history was introduced through a communication from Mr. Cyrus Thomas.

It was felt that the three societies of the district should act in concert in the matter of a history and at the present time, with incomplete organization, in the whole district, no separate responsibility can be well assumed.

The Secretary was instructed to make a reply to Mr. Thomas embodying these views.

The Directors for Brome and the Directors for Potton have been appointed some time ago, and are above recorded.

On motion of Mr. Ball, and seconded by Judge Foster, the following Directors were appointed:—

Sutton.—Wm. Brown, E. A. Dyer, Dr. R. T. MacDonald, and John Draper.

East Farnham. — Hiram Addison Lawrence, West Shefford; Eli W. Higgins, Brigham; Rev. R. D. Mills, Brigham; and Philip W. Taber, Adamsville.

East Bolton.—W. Harvey Austin, Aylmer Place; F. P. Channell, and David Randall.

West Bolton.—R. P. Duboyce, David A. Giddings, Ezra Nathaniel Davis, David Cousens.

The meeting then adjourned, to meet again at the call of the President.

W. W. LYNCH.
President.

ERNEST M. TAYLOR,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Taylor, Mrs. Benjamin and Miss Gower, Mr. Honeyman, Mr. S. W. Foster, Mrs. Pettes, Mr. H. A. Lawrence, Mr. H. S. Foster, Mr. Lester Ball, Rev. W. H. Stevens, Master Harold Taylor, Dr. McGowan, Sergeant Wherry, Mr. Davignon, Mr. Charles Cotton, Mrs. J. P. Hall and Col. O. P. Patten.

The minutes of the last annual meeting were read and accepted.

The Hon. Judge Lynch, the President, spoke as follows:—
Ladies and Gentlemen, and members of the Brome County Historical Society,—

Individually and as President, I have great pleasure in welcoming you to this, the annual meeting of our Society. Since we last met a few things have occurred of special interest to the Society. Last fall, I visited the Messrs. Dufresne, at East Bolton, who received me very graciously, and cheerfully consented to give the Society a free deed of the piece of land on which was placed a stone to commemorate the erection of the first house in that section of country. Owing to the fact that in the survey upon which the cadastral plan of that locality was prepared, this particular piece of land was laid out as a street; it was deemed best to take for the time being, a promise of sale until such time as another plan, which the Messrs. Dufresne contemplate having made, is prepared, doing away with this projected street.

About the same time I visited the spot in East Farnham set apart as the burying ground of the late Samuel Gale, and on which a monument was erected many years ago. The present proprietors were not willing to concede this piece of land, together with the necessary right of way to it from the highway, without remuneration; and, after some considerable discussion, I finally agreed to give them $50 for the land, on which the monument stands, and fifteen more feet on each side, together with a right of way twelve feet wide, from the highway—the Society being obliged to make and maintain a proper fence around the piece sold and along the right of way (the latter only in case the proprietors regarded it as necessary). The question then was, where was the $50 to come from; but, generally, where there is a will to do a thing, a way is found by which it can be done.

Shortly after this bargain was made, our Secretary had occasion to visit Montreal; and while there he paid a visit to Mrs. Sterry Hunt, the grand-daughter of the late Samuel Gale, and with that facility with which he accomplishes most things which he undertakes, he succeeded in impressing Mrs. Hunt with the importance of this work, which the Society had undertaken and left her with the requisite $50 in his pocket.

During the course of the winter the deed was passed; and, thanks to the generosity of Mr. Hart, before whom the deed was executed, and to Mr. H. S. Foster, the Registrar, the transaction was completed, without any additional expense.

A week ago to-day the Society had a most successful excursion to the once celebrated Isle-Aux-Noix and now the most interesting place, historically speaking, which we have in this vicinity.

It was participated in by a large number of the members of the Society and their families, as well as by many of its well wishers.

We are deeply indebted to William Mead Patterson, Esq., of Clarenceville, a well-known worker in the field of historical research, for a valuable paper (which he read) on the early history of the Island, and the country immediately surrounding it.

At our last meeting I was deputed to urge upon the Provincial Government the claims of this and other similar societies for financial assistance to enable them to carry to a successful end one of the principal objects of their formation, namely, the preparation and the publication of local county histories. Shortly before the last session of the Legislature, I wrote the Hon. Mr. Duffy, the member for the county, who had then become the Treasurer, urging upon him the importance of the work which the Society had in view, and its inability to accomplish it unless aid could be procured from outside. He replied, admitting the desirability of doing what I asked, but stating that it was then impossible for the government to grant it. I felt myself bound to accept Mr. Duffy's declaration; but I am not disposed to regard it as final.

One of the goals of our ambition is, to cause to be prepared, under the auspices of the Society, a comprehensive history of the county of Brome, the date when the letters patent were issued establishing the different townships of which it is composed, to the present time. Much of the material required for this purpose can only be found in the archives at Ottawa; and it will be necessary that the person undertaking the work, should spend much time in examining the papers which can only be found there, and in gathering from them the information imperatively needed. It will further require a personal visit to every locality in the county, and a personal interview with nearly every person in the county.

This work has already been neglected too long; and every year that passes is rendering it more difficult. One of our misfortunes in Canada is, that we do not sufficiently and properly appreciate our own history, which is a grand and glorious one. We are all Canadians, first and always; and we should know our country better than I am sorry to say that we do.

The principal factor in this regrettable condition of things is the want of a comprehensive history of the country as a whole; and we shall not have such an history until the little details which would go to make up county histories are gathered together.

There is not a county, and hardly a township in the New England States which has not its own history; and the result is that every youth in those states is perfectly familiar, not only with the general history of the whole country, but equally with that of his own locality; and he is proud of both. I know of no subject, more than this one, which deserves recognition at the hands of the Provincial Government, it is intimately connected with the general education of the people.

I would gladly advise that a petition be presented to the Legislature at its next session praying for assistance in this direction. One hundred dollars a year for the next five years is the extent of our wants; and surely the request is not an extravagant one.

I trust that our Treasurer will be able to present to-day such a satisfactory financial statement as will justify us in publishing a report of our proceedings since the organization of the Society.

I am confident that our members will be pleased to have such a report, and it will be useful in conveying to our sister societies a knowledge of what we have done.

Within a short time two young men, Eugene Wherry and Thomas Geer, residents of this county, have returned to their homes from the war in South Africa. Strictly speaking it may not be within the province of this Society to notice such events; but in this instance it has occurred to me that we might. So far as I am aware, they are the only ones from this county who have been permitted to take part in that memorable struggle—they have honored us all as Canadians—and through the providence of God, they have been permitted to return to their respective homes in perfect health. I would suggest the adoption by the Society of resolutions congratulating them upon their bravery and loyalty in going forth to fight the battles of our common country, upon their good fortune in being able to return safely to their homes and families.

The centenary of the issue of the letters patent establishing the township of Sutton, will be Aug. 31 next; and it may not be amiss to now direct the attention of the Directors to taking the necessary steps to properly celebrate that important event.

I would suggest that Mr. M. O. Hart, be made an honorary member of the Society. He lives in Missisquoi county, but he has always manifested a warm interest in the affairs of the Society, and has on several occasions refused to accept pay for important professional services rendered to the Society; and also that the thanks of the Society be tendered to Mrs. Sterry Hunt, H. S. Foster, Esq., and the Messrs. Dufresne, for their generosity and kindness.

It only remains for me to now thank the members of this Society for the great honor which they conferred on me in electing me as the first President, and for their continued confidence in since retaining me in the same position, and in this connection I desire to particularly thank our active and efficient Secretary-Treasurer for his valued services. He is the life of the Society; and to him alone is due the credit of the collection to be found in our embryo museum.

I had intended saying to-day that I would decline re-election as President, but the Rev. Mr. Taylor asks me not to do so, but to continue with him the work which we began together; and I feel I should not refuse his request, Judge Foster spoke very warmly commenting upon the activity and interest of Judge Lynch in the Society.

Moved by Judge Foster and seconded by Mr. H. S. Foster, that the speech of the President be engrossed in the minutes of the Society.

The Rev. E. M. Taylor presented his report as Treasurer, in which he stated that at the present time all bills against the Society have been paid, and there is a balance in the treasury of $18.15, with further receipts in anticipation.

Moved by Mr. Lester Ball, seconded by Mr. H. S. Foster, that the Secretary do prepare and cause to be printed in pamphlet form the proceedings of this Society from the date of its organization down to, and including, those of the present meeting—for distribution among the members, and for presentation to sister Historical Societies and otherwise, as will best promote the interests of the Society.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lester Ball, and seconded by Mr. H. A. Lawrence, that Mr. M. O. Hart, N.P., in recognition of professional services rendered, and of his interest in the Society, be elected a life member.—Carried.

Moved by Rev. E. M. Taylor, seconded by Col. O. P. Patten, that the thanks of the Society be tendered to Mrs. Sterry Hunt, Mr. H. S. Foster, and the Messrs. Dufresne, for their respective acts of kindness and generosity to the Society.—Carried.

Moved by Rev. E. M. Taylor, seconded by Col. O. P. Patten, that this Society and the members composing it, have heard with intense satisfaction of the enthusiasm with which loyal Canadians responded to the call of the Empire for assistance to maintain its supremacy in South Africa. That it was especially gratifying to know that among the patriotic sons of Canada, who went forth to battle in defence of our common country were two residents of Brome County—Eugene Wherry and Thomas Geer, both of the village of Knowlton.

That it was with deepest pride that we continued to hear from time to time of the devotion and loyalty of these two young men, fighting side by side with their fellows from all parts of the vast Empire, for the maintenance of British institutions in that far off land.

That our hearts have been filled with the fondest emotions of joy on learning that they both have returned, after being honorably discharged, to their respective families without harm or injury of any kind.

That this Society, desirous of placing on record its appreciation of the services rendered to the country by these young men, enrolls them as honorary members, and wishes them careers of honored usefulness.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lester Ball, and seconded by Mr. H. A. Lawrence, that the President and Secretary be authorized to petition the Provincial Government for assistance to enable it to prepare for publication a history of the County of Brome, and to invite the co-operation of similar societies in other parts of the Province.—Carried.

Moved by Judge Foster, seconded by Mr. H. S. Foster: Whereas since the last annual meeting of the Brome County Historical Society it has pleased Almighty God to remove by death our Gracious Sovereign, Queen Victoria, of blessed memory, we as members of the Brome County Historical Society, in annual meeting assembled, desire to place on record our thanksgiving, for the benefits of her long and glorious reign, and our grief at her departure, and take the opportunity of pledging our loyalty to her illustrious son, King Edward VII., and express our ardent hope that he may have a long and ever increasingly prosperous reign.—Carried unanimously.

Judge Foster and Col. Patten spoke eloquently in praise of the Canadian troops, and especially calling attention to the siege of Mafeking, in which Sergeant Wherry was an actor. The Rev. W. H. Stevens also supported the motion in a few well chosen remarks. Sergeant Wherry then replied, and fittingly acknowledged the honor done him by the Society. He stated that he expects to return to South Africa.

Moved by Judge S. W. Foster, seconded by Mr. H. S. Foster, that a History of the County of Brome be prepared, and that the Rev. Ernest M. Taylor be, and is hereby, appointed as the Historian.

Moved by Mr. H. A. Honeyman, seconded by Judge Foster, that the same officers as last year be re-elected, with thanks for their services.—Carried.

W. W. LYNCH,
President.

ERNEST M. TAYLOR,
Secretary-Treasurer.

BROME TOWNSHIP CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION.

The celebration of the centennial of the settlement of the Township of Brome was held on Wednesday, Aug. 18, on the farm of Mr. Ebenezer Miltimore, West Brome, and a large number of people participated in the pleasant and interesting proceedings.

Judge Lynch, Judge Foster, and Mr. Lester Ball were the prime movers in getting up the affair, which will be of historical interest to future generations, and has aroused the same interest in the minds of those present and many others that only a well written history of this part of the country will fully satisfy. That such a history has a chance of coming into existence is probable from the formation of the Brome County Historical Society, which was one of the events of last Wednesday.

Besides the serious part of the programme, for which the people of Brome were primarily called together, a basket picnic was held in the grove, and games were indulged in, one of which was a baseball game between West Brome and Cowansville, resulting in a defeat of the latter.

THE SPEAKERS.

The chair was accepted by Mr. Lester Ball, of Brome Corner, whose personal history, and that of the late Captain Ball, his father, is reminiscent with events connected with the history of the Township. It was Mr. Ball who first suggested the idea of the celebration. He found hearty co-workers in Judge Lynch and Judge Foster.

His Honor Judge Lynch was the first gentleman called upon to speak, and he gave a very interesting historical sketch, replete with facts and dates, which we would like to publish verbatim, but regret that for various reasons we are not able to do so.

On Aug. 18, 1797, the townships of Brome and Bolton were legally opened up for settlement by the issuance of letters patent from the Castle St. Louis, Quebec, by the Governor-in-Chief of Lower Canada, Robert Prescott. Some settlers had entered before that time.

Judge Lynch has an early public notice by Col. Knowlton, offering for sale thirty thousand acres of land in the Township of Brome. The whole Township then consisted of 58,460 acres.

In 1797 what now makes up the County of Brome was part of the County of Richelieu. Afterwards a portion of the county was included in Missisquoi, and the other portion was included in Shefford.

For many years Bolton and Potton belonged to Stanstead County. In 1853 what now makes the present County of Brome was erected into an electoral district and termed the East Riding of the County of Missisquoi. In 1856 the present boundaries of the county were fixed and the name Brome County given to it.

The first exhibition was held at Frost Village, in 1834, Aug. 27.

Judge Lynch exhibited a stone axe head dug up on his farm and a stone rod found on the shores of Brome lake.

The first house erected in Brome Township was by a pioneer named Collins on a spot a short distance from where the gathering was held on Wednesday. It was on a hill and overlooked the valley and a range of hills to the north.

The first person buried in the township was a daughter of this Collins.

Interesting speeches were made by Judge Foster, Hon. S. A. Fisher, Hon. H. T. Duffy, Rev. E. M. Taylor, and Col. Patten.

Judge Foster stated that during his father's time, Derby Line, Vermont, was the post-office for this region, and that once a month the people sent a messenger or courier to Derby Line, Vermont, for their mails, and that it was distributed for twenty miles around.

In 1856 the present boundaries of the county were fixed and the name Brome County given to it. Judge Foster said that when Brome was a part of Shefford County a man of the name of Lemesurier, of the city of Quebec, came up to Shefford as a candidate, drawn by a team of six dogs, and that in some measure this amusing team contributed to his defeat. The successful candidate was Colonel Paul H. Knowlton.

The Rev. Mr. Taylor exhibited a blacksmith's tool, owned by his great grandfather, a United Empire Loyalist, Daniel Taylor, who was one of the associates to whom, under leadership of Nicholas Austin, Governor Prescott issued letters patent on Aug. 18, 1797, to settle and hold the Township of Bolton.

In his speech Judge Foster suggested the formation of an historical society. The Hon. Messrs. Fisher and Duffy warmly approved of this. The officers elected to the society, called the Brome Historical Society, are:—Hon. Presidents, Mr. Lester Ball, Brome Corner; and Judge Foster, Knowlton; President, Hon. Judge Lynch, Secretary-Treasurer, Rev. Ernest M. Taylor, Knowlton; Directors, Hon. S. A. Fisher, Col. Patten, Jeremiah Pettes, and Jas. C. Pettes.

Votes of thanks were passed to the chairman, Judge Lynch, Judge Foster, Mr. Ebenezer Miltimore and the Knowlton Band.

ONE HUNDRED YEARS.

CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION OF THE SETTLEMENT OF POTTON.

(From the Knowlton "News," Oct. 8, 1897.)

The celebration in Mansonville, on Saturday last, was a most gratifying success in every respect. Mr. Levi A. Perkins acted as chairman, and his savoir faire and commanding presence gave dignity and tone to the whole proceedings. Mr. D. A. Manson was the first speaker, and dwelt upon the early history of the township and gave important information regarding the past, present and future. Judge Lynch was eloquent, as usual, entertaining the audience with a fund of information, calling up the many times he had faced an audience in Potton, and the associations he had formed here in days gone by. The Hon. H. T. Duffy met with a warm reception, captivating the audience with his eloquence. The Rev. E. I. Rexford was most eloquent, which, with his fine voice, was listened to with pleasure. The Rev. E. M. Taylor, as is his wont, overflowed with facts and figures, but as the hour was getting late he was obliged to cut himself short, much to the regret of the people. A vote of thanks was tendered to our most worthy chairman, three rousing cheers for the gentlemanly band. The selection of Messrs. John P. Noyes, Walter Lynch, D. A. Manson and F. F. Soule, as the committee for the Historical Society of Brome County, the one hundredth anniversary of Potton very satisfactorily came to a close. Not a thing to mar the pleasure of the day occurred, the large crowd being most orderly and gentlemanly.

SOME DETAILS.

The Township of Potton, in Brome County, was constituted on Oct. 31, 1797, by Governor Prescott, and a large number of people of this and surrounding townships turned out to honor the centennial celebration on Saturday. It was a most successful fete. There was an exhibition of antiquated farm implements and machinery, musical performances by the Knowlton band and school children, a volunteer inspection, and then a bounteous dinner.

Speeches followed, and below we give a brief synopsis of what the orators of the day said:

MR. D. A. MANSON.

From the days when Col. Ruiter, an officer in the King's service, shortly after the American Revolution, came into possession of a large tract of land, upon which he settled, down to the days when the Perkins, Gilmans, Mansons, and others, whose names are well known now through their descendants, came across the border, Mr. Manson had the whole interesting story at his fingers' ends. He referred lightly to the days when the townspeople were rather divided over the questions raised by Louis Papineau, making it necessary for some to take trips across the line, and to the prominent part taken by this frontier township at the time of the Fenian raid. He concluded with a poetic reference to the sainted fathers of the district, whose graves are now upon the hillsides of this beautiful country they helped to make and preserve to men of British race.

JUDGE FOSTER

followed with incidents drawn from his family history, which, indeed, is the history of a good portion of the county. He laid stress upon the fact that of those early settlers many had fought for their own land, the United States, in the war of 1812, but were foremost in the defence of their adopted country in 1837. He defied the world now, under its high-pressure civilization, to produce grander men or sweeter women than were those of the olden time, when labor-saving machines were not, nor were most of the things we now consider the common comforts of life, in existence. He wished we now had the same kindly, neighborly feelings which were the rule then. He trusted that the glimpse of the past we were getting to-day would result in a renewed growth of these kindly impulses. In so far as relates to the settlement of Potton, he said, we to-day stand on the dividing line of two centuries. Recognizing our obligations to God, to our noble ancestors, to our homes, and to our prosperous, united Dominion, let us be ready to pass on untarnished our heritage, and the blessings we enjoy to those who succeed us.

Yours truly

HON. JUDGE LYNCH

followed, and said he was glad to witness the success of the celebration, and to notice the interest now being taken in local history. They had good reason to be proud of their past, of the brave, patient souls, who, amid discomfort and anxieties, toiled to make this a habitable country. From the days when, as a budding lawyer, he had visited Mansonville as representative of Judge Foster, he had ever found Potton men worthy representatives of those sires. He believed in cherishing the memories of the past, and hoped for the success in this respect of the Brome County Historical Society, established at the Brome centennial a few weeks before.

HON. H. T. DUFFY

dwelt at length upon the high patriotism which characterized those men a hundred years ago. It was a desire to share in the excellent system of government Canadians enjoyed, which led them to seek homes here. It was admiration for British rule which caused them to strive to preserve the colony to England's king or queen, when trouble and dissensions arose. He did not believe in the cry of a distinct Canadian nation. In view of Canada's environment the idea of an independent Canada was absurd. We needed British connection, British protection, British fostering care. If the country were to become great it would be because of England's mighty aid.

REV. E. I. REXFORD,

Rector of the High School, Montreal, hoped that those present would try to preserve all of the records of the past. His own enquiries had conducted him to a lake bearing his family name in far away Norway. From the connections of his parents with the past of the township, he had a rich fund of original information to draw upon, with incidents full of interest, but unfortunately too long to quote. The study of the past ought to stimulate those present to noble deeds, and was worthy of preservation on that very account.

REV. W. P. CHAMBERS.

rector of Knowlton, drew from the story of the past a lesson of hope for the followers in the steps of those who had gone through their labors on to rest. Their monument was all around in the fruitful fields and pleasant homes. The hardships they would have to overcome would be as nothing compared with those their forefathers had struggled past. So would they succeed in turn, if true to themselves and their God. He deprecated preaching a gospel of dissatisfaction and discontent to men circumstanced as were those before him, and who were and ought to be considered amongst the prosperous of the earth, thanks to the sheltering beneficent care of the Mother Country.

REV. ERNEST M. TAYLOR,

inspector of schools referred to the first establishment of religious teachers and services in the locality, especially mentioning the Rev. Mr. Jones, then in charge of the Church of England congregation at Granby, about thirty-seven miles away. He also referred to the Mansonville parochial school, conducted in the gallery of the church by the Rev. J. Godden, where he and Mr. Rexford together received their early education. He suggested the formation of a local committee to co-operate with the Brome Society, and this was immediately decided upon and a committee named.

FIRST CONCERT OF THE BROME COUNTY HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The concert held in the Brome Hall, under the auspices of the Brome County Historical Society, on Thursday evening, Jan. 13, 1898, was a very gratifying success. The hall was well filled. On the platform were the Honorary Presidents, Lester Ball, Esq., and Judge Foster, Directors James C. Pettes and Col. O. P. Patten, Hon. Justice Lynch and Rev. Ernest M. Taylor, M.A., Secretary-Treasurer. The Hon. Judge Lynch, the President of the Society, presided, and from the beginning to the close of the long programme, there was nothing to mar the enjoyment of any individual. The opening piece was well presented by the Brome Orchestra, under the able management of Mr. Ernest S. Ball, The Hon. Judge Lynch next addressed the assembly, setting forth the aims of the society. Songs were sung by Dr. W. O. Lambly, Mrs. Lynch, Mr. E. P. Stevens, with orchestral accompaniment, and Mr. George L. Duncan, of the firm of Willis & Co., Montreal.

A violin duet was presented by Mrs. Fay and Miss L. Curtis. Through the entire concert each part was well taken. The Brome orchestra gave two pieces and the Knowlton orchestra three. The

Yours Truly

Ernest A. Dyer

Knowlton orchestra, under the enthusiastic management of Mrs. Fay has acquired a good reputation for skill, and on this occasion it was more than sustained. The fine toned Bell piano, placed in the hall free of charge, for the concert, by Willis & Co., was much admired, and added much to the music of the evening. In addition to the pieces presented, several encores were also given. Judge Foster very graphically sketched the improvements in the county during the last century, referring to the contrast between lighting houses with a dish containing a rag and some grease, and the electric light now in use. He referred to the desirability of having a history for each county.

Col. Patten, who is quite an encyclopaedia of history, eloquently described the struggles of the early settlers. The Rev. Ernest M. Taylor, the secretary, read letters from Mr. F. F. Channell, of East Bolton; Messrs. H. Addison Lawrence, and E. W. Higgins, of East Farnham; and Mr. Cyrus Thomas, of St. Andrews, the historian of the townships, asking to be enrolled as members. Also a letter from Mr. Walter Lynch, of Mansonville, sending in the following twenty names as members from Potton, and sending with it an express order for five dollars, being the membership fees for the twenty:—Messrs. L. A. Perkins, N. F. Mackay, D. A. Manson, F. F. Soule, James Hyland, Simeon Sargent, William Bashaw, Nelson Boright, Chase Gilman, L. J. Bourne, A. H. Jones, F. H. Perkins, Alvin Barry, C. C. Perkins, A. H. Anger, Geo. W. Holmes, A. E. Hardy, Walter Lynch, W. Ross Browne, Rural Dean and Lyman Knowlton. A message was also received from Mr. J. P. Noyes, of Cowansville, desiring to be enrolled as from Potton, it being his birth-place.

Thanks were presented by the chairman, to the musicians and particularly to Mr. Lester Ball, for his faithful and successful efforts in attending to all the local arrangements. At the close twenty-six persons gave in their names to the secretary and paid their fees. A goodly number were present from Sutton. The Society will hold a meeting for the transaction of business in the month of March in the Pettes Memorial Hall, at Knowlton.

The above report was printed in "The News," Jan. 21, 1898.

A LETTER FROM CYRUS THOMAS, AUTHOR OF HISTORY OF THE EASTERN TOWNSHIPS, 1863.

U. E. LOYALISTS.

(To the Editor of the "Witness.")

Sir,—In the "Daily Witness" of Dec. 18, a letter appeared over the signature of "E. T.," in which the writer expressed his doubts that there were any U.E. Loyalists among the early settlers of the Eastern Townships. The principal reason he assigned for these doubts is that a pioneer of the townships who had resided there many years affirmed that he had never known any among the early settlers of that section, who had left the United States for political reasons. This evidence, in the face of all the proofs that exist to the contrary, is of little value. A closer examination of Canadian history will, no doubt, convince 'E.T.' that his present ideas are slightly erroneous, although it cannot be denied, that there are many who claim to be descendants of U. E. Loyalists, who have no just title to this distinction.

To convince "E. T." of his error, we will glance only at the District of Bedford, among the early settlers of which locality, the following were U. E. Loyalists, as can be proved beyond a doubt:—Jeremiah Spencer and Simpson Jeune, who settled in St. Armand East, and whose descendants are still numerous there, and in the adjacent township of Sutton. Both had formerly lived in Clarendon, Vt., and one of them, at least, if not both, served in the army of Burgoyne; and after the defeat of that general their property was confiscated by the Americans, and they were forced to migrate to Canada, where their loyalty was rewarded by grants of land.

Thomas Shepherd—a neighbor of these two men in the town of Clarendon, Vt.—held the same political principles, for which he became an exile. He was one of the earliest pioneers of the township of Sutton, and many of his numerous descendants still reside there. Major Willard, who settled in the township of Stukely, is one of those mentioned by Dr. Ryerson, in his history of the U. E. Loyalists.

Colonel Samuel Wells, who was obliged to leave the United States on account of his loyalty to the British Government, received a grant of 1,200 acres of land in the township of East Farnham, and he was soon followed to Canada by his son-in-law, Samuel Gale, another U. E. Loyalist, who obtained an important position in the British service.

The first settlement in the Eastern Townships was made at the head of Missisquoi Bay, (now Phillipsburg), in the fall of 1784, by a party styled "U. E. Loyalists." Whether there is evidence that they were all of this class, I cannot say, but it is certain that one of their number, Phillip Luke, was entitled to this honor. I have no doubt that the descendants of many more of this party could furnish "E. T." with ample proof that their ancestors had the same valid claim to this distinction.

I have mentioned only a few, but as it is a well-known historical fact that about forty-two thousand U. E. Loyalists sought an asylum in Canada, it would be strange if there were not a great many who found their way into the Eastern Townships.

It may not be generally known that the term U. E. Loyalist originated in an Order-in-Council of the Imperial Parliament of Nov. 9, 1789, which provided that "all Loyalists who had joined the cause of Great Britain before the Treaty of Separation of 1783, together with their children of both sexes, have the distinction of using the letters U. E. after their names, thus preserving the memory of their devotion to a united Empire." The British Government also voted a sum of three million pounds for the indemnification and assistance of these people.

C. THOMAS,

St. Andrews, Quebec, Dec. 21, 1897.

THE BOLTON CELEBRATION.

On Aug. 18, 1898, at Gibraltar Point, Lake Memphremagog, a large company assembled to celebrate the one hundred and first anniversary of granting Letters Patent to Nicholas Austin and his Associates, conveying to them the township of Bolton which was then a township 12 miles by 10 miles in extent.

The day was cloudy but rainless, and everybody seemed happy.

For days before the East Bolton people had been making preparations.

Among those most active must be mentioned Messrs. W. Harvey Austin, the energetic secretary of the committee of arrangements; Aylmer Place, John F. Bryant, Frank P. Channell, David J. Randall, with their wives and members of their families.

Doctor Dufresne and Mr. Thomas Dufresne, who now occupy the old farm, did all they could to contribute to the success of the day.

The old house in which Nicholas Austin, sr., lived, now considerably broken down, was trimmed with evergreens and flags, and the platform was placed in front of the same. There were two brass bands in attendance.

As soon as the dinner was over the major part of the people gathered around the platform.

Mr. Aylmer Place called the meeting to order, and, in a well worded speech, announced the Hon. Judge Lynch, the President of the Brome County Historical Society, the chairman of the day.

As His Honor stepped forward he was greeted with cheer after cheer, led by Mr. John F. Bryant, which cheers merged into the well known song "He's a jolly good fellow."

Cheers and songs were given with the well known vigor of the Bolton boys.

On the platform were:—Messrs. W. Harvey Austin, grandson of the leader, David J. Randall, Aylmer Place, John F. Bryant, William Ball, Edson Place, B.A.; Percy Duboyce, B.A.; Rev. E. I.

Rexford, B.A.; Hon. H. T. Duffy, A. H. Moore, M.P.; Nelson Boright, Mayor of Potton; Judge Foster, and Mr. Lester Ball, honorary presidents of the Brome County Historical Society; Messrs. Charles Thibault, Senator Baker, Revs. D. Brill and W. P. Chambers, M.A.; Col. O. P. Patten, D. A. Manson, Rev. J. H. Fowler, M.A.; and the Rev. Ernest M. Taylor, M.A., secretary of the Brome County Historical Society.

His Honor Judge Lynch explained that the Society over which he presided only came into existence a few months ago.

As an officer of that Society, but first as a Canadian, he felt proud to take part in such a celebration as the present. There never yet was a nation that grew old in years and greater in power that did not live to regret the absence of early records dealing with its struggle into existence.

It is the object of the Society to gather up and preserve the data in relation to the early history of the Eastern Townships.

From matter preserved in the archives in Ottawa it appears that as early as 1792, Nicholas Austin, of Summersworth, New Hampshire, who had rendered valuable services to the British Government and was a loyal subject of the Crown, began to correspond with the government of Quebec regarding the very land upon which they stood this afternoon. Five years later Austin received the Letters Patent granting to him and his 53 associates the Township of Bolton, which document bears date Aug. 18, 1797.

Judge Lynch announced that he had been in correspondence with the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa and that he learns that there are, stowed away, in the archives of this department, records relating to the early history of the Eastern Townships of vital importance and interest. These ere long will be published.

This announcement was greeted with prolonged cheers and applause.

Mr. Harvey Austin made a brief but very interesting speech.

He stated that his grandfather made no less than eighteen trips to Quebec on foot.

Judge Foster, the next speaker, regretted that Mr. Austin's modesty prevented him from giving more of the interesting stories of early times which they were all so willing to hear.

Standing beside this old homestead, his mind went back fifty years to the time when Bolton Township was not what it is now. Even in that fifty years the habits of life had changed. How much more they must have altered in the preceding fifty years, of which unfortunately, there remained no one now to speak. And it was just because of this that they should cherish what lingering remnants of that old time which still exist. Such things only increase as time goes past, but become more difficult to secure and collect.

H. Thos. Duff

The Judge concluded his speech with the following eloquent words:—

“With no discouraging features in the past history of Canada, and with every prospect to stimulate us, let us hope that our posterity will be inspired to great achievements, and above all, to the highest condition of Christianity. This centennial celebration day will soon be over, and neither we nor our children will see it again, and when, one hundred years hence, others will celebrate the second centennial of this part of Canada, let us hope that a sacred regard to duty may influence public men, public women and private citizens, to lead our Canada onward in her prosperous and happy course, that then, as now, the flag of England will float over no land more free, more prosperous or more happy than this our beloved Dominion of Canada.”

Judge Foster then exhibited a number of interesting relics. One was Col. Paul Holland Knowlton's rusty sword, another the bayonet carried by Isaac Hilliker, of West Bolton, in the war of 1812, About all these objects Judge Foster told some interesting story or fragment of history picked up by hearsay.

In a felicitous speech, the Hon. H. T. Duffy addressed the meeting. He spoke of the pleasure it gave him to be among his own people once more. The occasion is one which should be encouraged and perpetuated. This Historical Association is capable of doing a great deal that is useful and important. We live not only in the present, we live in the past. From that past we learn many lessons, and glean much inspiration. No people or nation ever came to anything that did not honor and remember the days and deeds of their fathers.

Especially should we revere the memory of those men, and women, too, who came here as the first makers of a nation. In introducing Mr. A. H. Moore, M.P., for Stanstead County, His Honor Judge Lynch referred to the fact that originally a part of Magog Township belonged to Bolton.

And hence Mr. Moore came as a representative of a portion of the original Bolton.

Mr. Moore's speech was eloquent and witty, He said he had not brought with him the relics like those which they had seen to-day, but he had brought with him two young ladies who were descendants of one of the first settlers on the shores of Lake Memphremagog. This pioneer, whose name was Johnson, had been taken captive by the Indians, and they had not only condemned him to die, but had tied him to the stake and started the fire around him, when he gave the sign of distress used by a certain secret society, and this was recognized by some Indians who belonged to the same order.

They at once released him, and he lived peacefully on the shores of the lake, one of his descendants being the Magog poetess, Helen Johnson, and her brother, the late Sheriff of St. Francis.

Rev. E. M. Taylor, M.A., a great-grandson of Daniel Taylor, one of the associates with Nicholas Austin, was next called upon to speak. He recited some interesting traditions of early pioneer life in the Eastern Townships. He read the following historical ballad which he had composed for the occasion:—

One hundred years ago to-day,
 One hundred years ago,
 The bear and wolf held ample sway
 Where now we fear no foe.

A few brave hearts of loyal trust,
 Made war upon the foe,
 With axe in hand they outward thrust,
 One hundred years ago.

On Gibraltar's high and sloping land,
 On Memphremagog's shore,
 Bold Austin with his handy band
 Struck out in days of yore.

The fish was plenty for their food,
 The game was quick at hand,
 The partridge eggs or fluttering brood
 Were thick upon the land.

Dark forest acres ninety-five
 Gave way to smiling corn,
 And dark-browed men with hope alive
 No longer were forlorn.

The corn was pounded into meal,
 And cakes sufficient made,
 And happy, men began to feel
 By Elephantis' shade.

But by and by the mill was brought,
 Which here you see to-day
 That by the brook with blessings fraught.
 Worked steadily away.

With hominy, samp and johnny-cake
 And finest fowl and fish,
 The cooks of olden time did make
 Full many a dainty dish.

Field followed field and houses rose,
 As men and women came
 With brave, true hearts, as record shows,
 The forest wilds to tame.

And as we stand upon the shore,
 Where they stood long ago,
 Comparing now, with days of yore,
 We should their virtues show.

If labors hard and scanty fare
 Produced a sturdy race,
 Let us, who greater blessings share,
 Prove worthy of their place.

Mr. Taylor referred to the postal conditions when Georgeville was the post-office for East Bolton and when a letter coming from the United States cost twenty-five cents for postage and the regulation was then that three-fourths of the postage had to be paid by the sender and the remaining fourth by the receiver.

As in the Eastern Townships the New York shilling, worth twelve and a half cents, and the half shilling worth six and a fourth cents were in circulation; this was easily accomplished. He gave an amusing "Address" which had been written on a letter from Benjamin Newhall, of East Saugus, Mass., to one of the early settlers of Bolton, Gorham Page, father of Mrs. Harvey Austin, which ran as follows:—

"Eighteen and three fourths cents I have paid
 To 'Uncle Sam' to be conveyed
 To Derby Line without delay,
 'Twixt Vermont and Canada;
 Thence if John Bull will Convey me safe to Georgeville,
 Six and one-fourth cents I do engage
 He shall receive from Gorham Page,
 And if said Page will not comply,
 I'll lie in Georgeville till I die."

This letter was dated 1837.

He then by request held up to view and explained the history of the little rude old coffee mill, which, one hundred years ago, ground the corn for the early settlers for miles around.

This mill was operated by a little water wheel, placed on a brook running near Mr. Austin's barn.

This was so arranged that a bag of corn would be ground in the night, while the person waiting for his grist would be sleeping at Mr. Austin's house. This mill, by working day and night, would grind eight bushels of corn in the twenty-four hours.

Mr. Taylor was then requested to blow a blast on the shell which had done duty in the Austin home for more than one hundred years, as a dinner horn.

The Rev. Elson I. Rexford, B.A., Rector of the High School, Montreal, who was born in Bolton, made a very interesting and suggestive speech, giving account of his great-grandfather Rexford, who came in winter from Lake Champlain, with an ox team, and coming through the Bolton Pass, crossed by the Holland Mountain, and on the ice entered Austin's Bay, and found entertainment for his family at Mr. Austin's house.

Mr. Rexford spoke of the handicraft of the older times and said that the children of to-day suffer for the lack of that manual training which the necessities of pioneer life compelled.

As when a man could be his own shoemaker, blacksmith, etc., he was a better educated man, and more independent than when he had others to work for him. He urged the young to keep high ideals before them.

Mr. D. A. Manson, ex-M.P. for Brome County, then very ably addressed the meeting.

Mr. Charles Thibault, of Waterloo, gave a particularly witty speech, in which he playfully criticised the previous speakers. At the close of his address the little daughter of Mr. J. F. Bryant, of Millington, appeared with a button-hole bouquet for each gentleman on the platform.

The Rev. W. P. Chambers, M.A., of Knowlton, gave a brief address, in which he invited his auditors to look from the treasured past to brighter things beyond.

The Rev. D. Brill, of East Bolton, spoke briefly, and told that the grandest men he met when serving in California were Bolton boys, sons of Alexander Taylor. Mr. Edson Place, B.A., of Millington, gave a spirited address, in which he called attention to the incidents of early struggle, when the associates, banded together to conquer the difficulties of a primeval forest, and subdue it to meet the ends of modern civilization. Mr. William Ball, an undergraduate of McGill University, spoke well of the early experiences of his great-grandfather, Nicholas Austin, who, as a quaker, was permitted to drive in the presence of the Governor, at Quebec, and even of the then Prince of Wales, without removing his hat. When Mr. Austin came to the country he had ten thousand dollars in the bank, but spent it all in building up the new country, and died poor, but Bolton was the richer.

Both Mr. Place and Mr. Ball gave evidence of ability that will make them widely and favorably known in the years that are to come. While one hundred years ago no schools were found in Bolton, nor were there any for years thereafter, there were now present no less than five Bolton boys, now, university men. And each of them now belongs to some one of the families of first settlement in Bolton.

Other speakers declined to address the meeting, as the sun was fast approaching the western hills.

And amid loud cheering the successful celebration, long to be pleasantly remembered, closed.

The improvised museum of relics was exceedingly interesting.

An ancient home-made pipe organ, a powder horn made from a horn of an ox driven into Bolton, over one hundred years ago, by Mark Randall, one of the original associates. Spinning wheels, a loom, a flax hatchel, a wooden plough from Stukely belonging to Mr. A. A. Knowlton.

Ancient tongs, a buttress used by Daniel Taylor, when he came as the first blacksmith, and many other curiosities, which it is hoped may be preserved to find a place in the museum of the county, which it is expected may ere long take form. Throughout the day Mr. Frank Channell, one of the Directors of the Society, presided over the tables and saw that none hungry went away.

CELEBRATION AT BRIGHAM CENTENNIAL, OCT. 21ST, 1899.

From Brome, where the Brome Monument had been unveiled by the President, Judge Lynch, the party made up of Judge Lynch, Prof. Cox, Dean Walton and Rev. E. M. Taylor drove to Brigham, where, at the Dufferin Grammar School, a large number of the residents of the Townships of East and West Farnham had gathered to fittingly celebrate the centennial of the first settlement made in the township, which at that time was no divided into east and west. It was on October 22, 1799, that the letters patent erecting the township were issued.

The chair was taken by Judge Lynch, who explained the object of the meeting, and the importance of the work the Historical Society is endeavoring to do.

The Rev. Mr. Mills, principal of the school, then explained and exhibited a number of articles of historical interest which had been gathered from various sources for the occasion. One was a coat worn by Hendrick Ten Eyck, a British soldier taken prisoner by the Americans in the revolutionary war, and placed in an American vessel moored off Boston. Ten Eyck and a companion managed to get free of their manacles, and, under cover of darkness slipped into the water. Their absence was almost immediately discovered, and bullets were rained upon them. Ten Eyck's companion sank to rise no more, but he himself managed to make good his escape. He afterwards came to Canada, and settled in Missisquoi. He was the grandfather of the late Andrew Ten Eyck, of Dunham, who died last winter. Mr. Ten Eyck's gun and sword were also shown, as well as a portrait of his wife, and a New Testament in Dutch, containing the family register.

Mr. Mills also showed the compass of Ephraim Nash, who, in 1796, began the first survey of the Township of Farnham.

Mr. Botsford gave a resume of the papers of the late Samuel Gale. This duty was to have been performed by the late Mr. M. B. Jewell, but his death a few days ago compelled an alteration of the arrangements. Considering the short space of time he has had for such a responsible piece of work, Mr. Botsford did remarkably well. The object of his paper was to show that Samuel Gale was a bona fide United Empire Loyalist. He stated that even before the war, which began in 1775, the loyal party in the American colonies was called the United Empire party. The hatred of the revolutionists towards their loyal neighbors was openly shown. In 1784, the British Government ordered surveys in Ontario, Quebec and New Brunswick, in order to provide land for twenty-five thousand refugees, called United Empire Loyalists in the official list. The documents investigated showed that Samuel Gale, had faithfully served the British Government from 1775 to 1783, when he applied for land in the British possessions on account of the losses sustained by him in the colonies because of his loyalty. He was assigned a tract in Farnham, on which what is now called Gale Mountain stands, in the patent it was stated that the grant of land was for services rendered the army in America. Gale also acted as agent for a number of his fellow-petitioners for land. On the lists were notes to show that the refugees had served, and that their means of sustenance had been taken from them.

Professors Walton and Cox made pleasant little speeches expressing the pleasure they had taken in the meetings. Col. Patten and Mr. Taylor also spoke.

It was decided that an effort should be made to secure the possession of the piece of land on which the late Samuel Gale's monument now stands, and to restore the stone, which is sadly out of repair.

Yours truly
R. W. England

UNITED EMPIRE LOYALISTS.

I am surprised to learn that the question has been raised as to whether any portion of the Eastern Townships was settled by United Empire Loyalists. The great majority of those who settled in Missisquoi County at the first were U. E. L's. During the winter just past I had evidence brought before me of U. E. Loyalists in the three counties of Brome, Missisquoi and Shefford. The sturdy Dutch people of New York State came in considerable numbers. But the descendants of Loyalists from New York, New Hampshire, Connecticut and Massachusetts are scattered all through these Counties. Let him who calls in question the validity of U. E. Loyalist remains in the Eastern Townships, go to a stone monument, overgrown by trees, in East Farnham, and read the following:—"Here rests Samuel Gale, Esq., formerly Acting Deputy Paymaster-General of His Majesty's forces in the Southern Provinces, now the United States of America, subsequently Secretary to His Excellency the Governor-in-Chief of His Majesty's Dominions in North America, author of essays on Public Credit and other works. Born at Kimpton, Hants, England, Oct. 14th, 1747 O. S., died at Farnham, June 27th, 1826. And Rebecca Wells, his wife, born at Deerfield, in Massachusetts, January 23, 1752 O. S. Died at Farnham, January 23rd, 1826. They were married June 25th, 1773. During a union which Providence was pleased to extend to nearly 53 years they lived together with mutual affection." This is in good lettering on the Gale monument, on the slope of Gale Mountain, and on the farm which Mr. Gale once owned, consisting of one thousand acres. Many of Mrs. Gale's relatives settled in Farnham, near West Shefford, and many interesting facts are on the stones marking the early graves in the Wells burying ground, in East Farnham. One stone marks the resting-place of a child of the name of Lucinda Bennett, who died Dec. 23rd, 1799. This is believed to be the first death that occurred in Farnham. If there be the record of any earlier in the Township of East or West Farnham I will be glad to know.

Society.

CERTIFICATE OF LOYALTY OF SAMUEL GALE, FROM J. T.
KEMPE, LATE ATTORNEY-GENERAL OF NEW YORK,
MAY 9th, 1787.

This is to certify that I have known Mr. Samuel Gale for about Fourteen or Fifteen years last past; for some years before the beginning of the late Troubles in North America he held and exercised the Offices of Clerk of the Peace, and Clerk of the Common Pleas of the County of Cumberland in the Province of New York, and that in Virtue thereof he had the recording of Deeds, registering of Mortgages, etc., in that County. That he was likewise a Surveyor of lands, deservedly held in high reputation in that profession, and that from his Residence in a part of the country producing much employment therein, he was in a very fair way (by the exercise of his profession and offices) of making an handsome Fortune, when the Troubles in America commenced; That on that occasion he took a decided Part against the Insurgents, in consequence of which he has lost all his property together with his offices; and the exercise of his profession he has been deprived of from that time to this, and I believe with no Hopes in future of availing himself of it in that country: That when the Royal Army first arrived in New York in 1776, he was employed as cashier by Mr. Barrow, then Deputy Paymaster-General, who has frequently expressed to me the highest approbation of his conduct and the great regard he had for him as a man of Worth and Understanding: That having myself known Mr. Gale for so many years, and believing myself to be intimately acquainted with the Powers of his Mind and the Goodness of his Heart, I have great pleasure in bearing Testimony to both. Mr. Gale has a wife and several children, who, I believe, are in the greatest distress from no other cause than the consequences flowing from his loyalty to His Majesty, Attachment to the British Government.

I therefore beg leave to join in recommending Mr. Gale, as a Person of Merit, a faithful Subject, and Servant of the Public for an adequate Provision for himself and Family, either in that mode which has been adopted for the Relief of suffering Loyalists, under the Denomination of "Allowances for services without Military Rank," or in such other Mode as shall be judged most proper.

J. T. KEMPE,

Late Attorney-General New York State.

PROCES VERBAL, GALE MONUMENT LOT.

On this the Thirtieth Day of the Month of August in the Year Nineteen hundred and one.

At the request of the Honorable Mr. Justice Lynch, President of the Brome County Historical Society, a body corporate and politic residing in the village of Knowlton, and Hosanna Larose, farmer, of the East part of the Township of Farnham.

I the undersigned Thomas Kirk, Provincial Land Surveyer, and duly qualified to practice as such, residing in the City and District of Montreal, have made the following survey.

Having first examined a Deed of Sale from Hosanna Larose to the Brome County Historical Society, passed before M. O. Hart, Notary Public, bearing date the twenty-fifth day of the month of February Nineteen hundred and one, I began at a point where I planted a boundary of cedar and stone, with white earthen underneath. Thence southerly parallel to and at a distance of fifteen feet (from the westerly side of the Monument erected to the late Samuel Gale) a distance of thirty-six feet, to a point where I planted a similar boundary of Cedar and Stone with White earthen underneath. Thence easterly at right angles passing fifteen feet southerly of said Monument, a distance of thirty-six feet, to a similar boundary of Cedar and Stone with White earthen underneath; thence northerly at right angles, passing fifteen feet easterly of said Monument, a distance of thirty-six feet to a similar boundary of Cedar and Stone, with White earthen underneath; thence westerly, at right angles, passing fifteen feet northerly of said Monument, a distance of thirty-six feet to the place of beginning; containing a superficie of two thousand one hundred and ninety-six feet (2,196).

I then began at the last mentioned point and turned an angle to the right from the last mentioned line of thirty-four degrees and fifty minutes, on an Astronomical bearing of north fifty-eight degrees, west a distance of two hundred and sixty-one feet and six inches, to a point on the easterly side of the highway, where I planted a boundary of Cedar and Stone with White earthen underneath. This line forms the northern boundary of a right of way extending from the highway to the parcel of land herein firstly described.

The whole forming part of cadastral number five hundred and thirteen (513) of the Official Plan and Book of Reference of the East part of the Township of Farnham.

The variation of the needle being fourteen degrees as ascertained by me by an observation of the sun at twelve o'clock noon, on the twenty-first day of the Month of June Eighteen hundred and ninety-nine at the Village of Sweetsburgh.

In faith and testimony whereof the said parties have signed their respective names with me the said Surveyor at Sweetsburgh, on the day and date firstly herein written. The foregoing having been first duly read.

PETITION OF BROME HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

To the Honorable Sir Louis A. Jetté, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec, and to the Honorable the Members of the Executive Council of Said Province:

The petition of the "Brome County Historical Society" respectfully represents:

That your petitioner is a corporation under the provisions of section 5487 of the Revised Statutes of the Province;

That it is actively engaged in the work of searching out the early history of Brome County and of localizing the principal events in connection therewith.

That at its last annual meeting it was decided to undertake the preparation of a history of Brome County, upon lines somewhat similar to those which have proved very successful and useful in most of the counties and smaller localities of the New England States.

That the preparation of a reliable history, such as your petitioner has in contemplation, will involve a somewhat extended examination of the archives at Ottawa, as well as those of the Historical Societies of New York, New Hampshire and Vermont, from which States many of the early settlers of this county came.

That your petitioner hopes to see similar societies established in all the counties of the Province, and ventures to express the belief that much benefit, educational, historical and otherwise, would result to the country, as a whole, therefrom.

That your petitioner has not the means to enable it to undertake this research work and to carry it to a successful termination.

That your petitioner earnestly trusts that you will be graciously pleased to approve of its intended work, and make it an annual grant for three years, of at least the sum of $100, to assist it in meeting the expense with which it must necessarily incur.

And as in duty bound, your petitioner will ever pray,

SAMUEL W. FOSTER, Honorary President.
W. W. LYNCH, President.
E. M. TAYLOR, Secretary.

BROME'S HISTORY.

AND A SCHEME FOR THE SPREAD OF FREE LITERATURE IN THE COUNTRY.

The Brome County Historical Society, of which Mr. S. W. Foster is Honorary President; the Hon. W. W. Lynch, President; and the Rev. E. M. Taylor, is Secretary, has petitioned the Provincial Government to grant $100 per year for three years to defray the expense of collecting materials and writing the history of the county. The archives at Ottawa as well as the records of the historical societies of New York, New Hampshire and Vermont, will require to be searched, for the making up of Brome's history. It is to cover part of this expense that the Provincial Legislature is being asked to contribute.

The "Pettes' Memorial," a body corporate for the diffusion of useful knowledge, has by resolution asked the Hon. Judge Lynch to prepare a memorial to the Provincial Government suggesting a general scheme to aid free libraries. The Hon. Sydney Fisher was the mover, and Mr. A. W. Pettes the seconder of the motion. The petitioners think the desired end might be obtained by the appointment of a "Free Library Commission," to be chosen by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, but are "indifferent as to the mode to be adopted in coming to their assistance." The petitioners state that they already have a hall in Knowlton erected by a noble lady who, however, could not buy all the books that are required. It is assistance financially from the government they desire, in order to get the books. It is suggested that the government might grant to each public free library in the province a sum of money each year on condition that a like sum should be furnished by the people in the locality interested. This petition is signed by Mr. J. C. Pettes, president, and Mr. L. Moore, secretary.

PAPER READ BEFORE "THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY OF THE COUNTY OF BROME" AT ISLE AUX NOIX, ON THE 8th AUG., 1901, BY MAJOR W. MEAD PATTISON, OF CLARENCEVILLE.

Mr. President, and Members of the Historical Society of the County of Brome:

On behalf of the inhabitants of adjacent counties, and as associated with the Historical Society of Missisquoi, I may be permitted to cordially welcome you to this historic and beautiful island, Your judgment in selecting this locality is to be commended.

When requested to give you the result of my researches into the history of Isle aux Noix, I esteemed it an honor and privilege to comply, and in endeavoring to interest you will not weary you with more than a synopsis of a subject that would more properly fill a volume.

If there is a locality in Canada deserving of a monument to Samuel de Champlain other than Quebec, it is this island. And may we live to see one erected here, surmounted with his statue with arm extended and finger pointing in the direction of the noble lake that bears his name. When Champlain ascended this river in 1609 and landed on this island, he found it covered with nut-bearing trees, and put it down on his chart as "Isle aux Noix," He learned from his chosen guides of the Algonquin nation that this majestic river had been the direct channel of communication of their bitterest enemy, the nation of the Iroquois, inhabiting the lake region of the present New York State. These lakes still preserve the names of the respective five nations. These warlike Indians coveted the hunting grounds of the Canadian tribes on the St. Lawrence, and finally dominated this river, so Champlain designated it on his first chart as "The River of the Iroquois." On returning to France to render an account of his explorations to King Henry IV., the name of the King's Prime Minister, Cardinal Richelieu, was substituted, Champlain, in his expedition to the territory he had designated as "New France," arrived at Quebec on July 2nd, 1608. The name was known in the Indian tongue as "Kébec"; signifying "a narrows," which actually occurs at this part of the St. Lawrence, where he in after years built the "Fort" and the "Castle of St. Louis." His small number of associates amongst the horde of savages was compensated by his superior weapons of warfare, which commanded their astonishment and respect. Selecting sixty trusted Algonquins as guides and navigators in the month of June, 1609, Champlain ascended the St. Lawrence to explore, as well as to make war with the ablest and bravest Indians of North America, the Iroquois. The alliance with the tribes who were to be the nearest neighbors of the French was made on their promise to befriend Champlain and his associates, and trade with them, and resulted in the expeditions of 1609, 1610, and 1615. The Richelieu river being the most direct route to reach the Iroquois country, he availed himself of it, and, having made his Indian allies fairly proficient in the use of fire-arms, drove the Iroquois from their various strongholds out of it into the lake to a point at its southern terminus, the present Ticonderoga, where he found them in strong force to receive him, but who fled on his first assault with his deadly musket. Having overpowered them, his Indian followers bore away numbers of their captives for whom Champlain tried in vain to secure humane treatment. The conquerors returned to their hunting grounds and Champlain to Quebec. In 1610 a repetition was followed by the most barbarous cruelties. In 1615 he formed an alliance with the Hurons, whose territory lay between Lake Simcoe and Georgian Bay. His combined forces crossed lake Ontario, and, entering the Iroquois country, found them prepared in rudely constructed, though well sheltered works. In the desperate encounter Champlain was wounded, though he had provided himself with armour deemed impervious to arrows. The fickle Huron bore him away on a rude litter, and retreated back to their own country. Champlain's position in the colony of New France, up to 1633, was as principal agent of the several companies engaged in the fur trade with the Indians for their own benefit rather than for the colonization of the country.

THE HUNDRED ASSOCIATES.

In 1627 Cardinal Richelieu, the ruling spirit of France at that period, interested himself in affairs of the Colony and founded the company of "The Hundred Associates," who were granted a monopoly of the fur trade and other concessions for sixteen years, besides the practical rule of the entire territory designated as New France, extending to the Ohio, far west to the Mississippi, and thence on to the Gulf of Mexico. Richelieu was head of this enterprise. This powerful corporation was, in effect, a Feudal lord, and Richelieu introduced in a large measure the old Feudal Tenure of France, the beginning of the Seigniorial Tenure, which lasted for over two centuries in this province.

Champlain, though he had added by his discoveries the larger part of the continent of North America to the colonial dependencies of France, and we may fairly say won the affection of his Sovereign and countrymen, was not without jealous rivals who would fain deprive him of his honors and position. After the death of King Henry IV., their aims came near accomplishment. He still retained his commission from the King as Lieutenant-Governor over New France, and, consequently, his name stands first amongst the governors of Canada. Time will not allow us to dwell longer upon our illustrious hero. His remains rest at Quebec, where he breathed his last on the 25th of December, 1635.

The French were not yet to have peace with the Iroquois. The assistance given their traditional enemies of the St. Lawrence and upper lake region of Canada was yet to be atoned for, and their raids by way of the Richelieu still continued, rendering the adjacent territory uninhabitable. On June 30, 1665, Marquis de Tracy assumed the third governorship of the country, and brought with him Colonel de Salier's famous Carignan Regiment and the most famous engineers with Voban's plans for adequate fortifications along the Richelieu. Forts were erected at Sorel, at Chambly Rapids—"Fort St. Louis," capable as shelter for the inhabitants and bases of supply. Formidable defensive works fringed the river at St. Therese, Isle aux Noix, and Isle la Motte, on Lake Champlain. Men and supplies were constantly arriving from France. His native allies were encouraged by the imposing display of tinsel and music. De Tracy, though far advanced in years, headed the expedition in person in the following year, with 1,400 men, consisting of regulars, Canadian Militia, and Indians as guides and navigators. His progress was, however, necessarily slow, and he reached the Mohawk too late for successful operations. The prospect of a frozen lake and river behind him, guided his determination to retreat to his forts on the Richelieu and St. Lawrence.

The Iroquois now realized that their country was vulnerable and that they had to deal with a valorous foe, possessing more deadly weapons, and the Onondagas, Cayagas, and Senecas, of the "Five Nations," entered into terms with de Tracy. The Mohawks and Oneidas remained obstinate. In 1666 a futile attempt was made to subjugate them by Marquis de Courcelles.

THE ORIGINAL SEIGNEURS.

It would perhaps be interesting to know something of this famous French regiment which contributed to this result, and of the inducements offered to them to come and remain in Canada at the termination of their service. Its officers were from the best families in France, known as the "noblesse," and inducements were held out to them that on termination of the war grants of land would be made to them as Canadian Seigneurs. The soldiers were promised means to start them as colonists. The Seigneurs subsequently, on the sale of any portion of their lands reserved as an annual rental (which touches the pockets of many of us in some of the Seigniories to this day!). It will be observed that many Seigniories, parishes and places on or contiguous to the Richelieu and St. Lawrence, bear the names to this day of those persons who received concessions of lands, mostly belonging to the Carignan Regiment; as Sorel, known also as Rouville, giving name to the present county; Berthier, Chambly, Vercheres, Varennes, Boucherville, St. Ours, Noyan, Longueuil and others. These French pioneers, being in terror of the red man, settled on lands contiguous to large fortresses, near the outlet of the Richelieu, which had the capacity to hold the garrison and stores as well as the inhabitants, whom necessity obliged to flee to them for refuge. These frugal, industrious, and peace-loving people looked to their Seigneurs and spiritual guides for assistance and advice, and not in vain! Their social proclivities and love of home kept them together. Their aspirations in a social sense were conservative; hence the large territory in the western section of the Townships is familiarly termed "the French country," by no means in derision, but in a broad, kindly sense. Their first stockaded villages in Champlain's time were termed "Habitations," and hence their occupants "Habitants," a term now largely fallen into disuse. But how rapidly this primitive type of the early pioneers has passed from our view! Their descendants still show the spirit of adventure, in their love of country and home, are ever ready to defend our land, its institutions and government.

Some may think this a digression from the subject in hand, but I desire to presently show you how much Canada of the present is indebted to its early governors, soldiers, and colonists, from France.

Under the rule of succeeding viceroys there is not much to interest us in the Richelieu until we come to De Denonville, though in a general sense, the administration of Count Frontenac is notable.

It must be observed here that the Indians at this period were using fire-arms. The Iroquois obtained theirs from the Dutch, with whom they traded at Fort Orange, now Albany, on the Hudson, Considering themselves, in a defensive sense, on a par with the white man, they became arrogant, and a menace to the colony of New York, so that forts were erected which answered for trading posts as well as defences for the protection of settlers in case of invasion. The interest the English colonists took in the Iroquois was for the money which could be made out of him, taking his peltry in exchange for his natural necessities. As in our day, gold was the guage. The Iroquois was prepared to serve any one who would contribute to that passion. His loyalty to the English colonists was gauged by that standard.

De Denonville, who arrived in New France in 1685, was a soldier as well as a statesman. Readily taking in the situation of the colony, he ordered fresh troops which shortly followed him under Vaudreuil, and he was fully prepared for an invasion of the Iroquois country, notably the Senecas, the most numerous nation.

Just at this time an unfortunate accident occurred that exasperated the Iroquois. A party who came for a parley with the French was seized and transported to France, not only as an exhibit, but for punishment in the galleys. This enraged the natives, and war against the white man was resumed in earnest. Guerilla bands of Indians invaded the territory along the Richelieu and in the lake region of the west. The colonist could not work his clearing or preserve his cattle only under the protection of an armed force. Hundreds of colonists were butchered in cold blood. This deplorable condition of things was attributed to the New England trader, who supplied the Iroquois with fire-arms and spirits, and exasperated the French colonist. A special minister was despatched to France for further assistance. The Lachine massacre paralysed the inhabitants, as no effective resistance was in sight. Count Frontenac seemed to be the man the people looked to for deliverance, and he was sent out to succeed De Denonville and to restore confidence.

WAR BETWEEN ENGLAND AND FRANCE.

War between England and France at this time was in a large measure the result of the existing state of things and the dispute as to territorial bounds of the respective nations on the Northern Continent of America. Both nations had determined on a vigorous policy of supremacy over the continent, and large reinforcements and supplies were sent out to the respective colonies. The middle of winter was chosen by Frontenac for his expedition with his Indian auxiliaries, now expert with fire-arms.

He had won the confidence of the Canadian tribes, and they were inspired to acts of wantonness peculiar to their method of warfare. Spreading out into small bands, they left destruction to mark their path. This period is known in New England history as "The French and Indian War," replete with horrors rarely met with in history. It afforded a school for many of the colonists who became distinguished in subsequent events on this continent, notably George Washington and the unfortunate Marquis de Montcalm, who was with the expedition to the Hudson led by Boulamaque on this occasion.

Goodrich tells us: "The campaign of 1759 had for its object the entire conquest of Canada. General Amherst led an expedition, and, in his advance, captured the French Posts of Ticonderoga and Crown Point. The French retired to Isle aux Noix, where they encamped with a force of 3,500 men and a powerful artillery. General Amherst desired to follow up his successes against them in that quarter, but the want of a suitable naval armament prevented." Here we have an indisputable evidence that we are standing on the ground once occupied by that distinguished French commander and his forces who tried conclusions with General Wolfe on the Plains of Abraham, on September 12th, 1759, which sealed the fate of a valiant foe and added a brilliant jewel to the British Crown!

In corroboration of Goodrich's narrative I will quote from the eminent Canadian historian, Sir J. G. Bourinot, LL.D., D.C.L., in his "Story of Canada," published by the Copp, Clark Co., Toronto, in 1898, price $1.50, which should be in every household in Canada. He writes: "The security of Montreal depended mainly on the French continuing to hold control of Lake Champlain and Isle aux Noix, which they now set to work to fortify. Boulamarque, an able officer, was in command of the French forts on the lake, with a force of 2,000 men, of whom half were Canadians, and had orders to abandon Carillon (Ticonderoga) and Crown point, if necessary, and advance to Isle aux Noix." So it appears that Montcalm, at this time, had taken command of the French forces at Quebec. "Brigadier-General Haviland left Lake Champlain, captured Isle aux Noix, and then marched on Montreal. Brigadier Murray came up from Quebec. All these forces concentrated on the same day on the Island of Montreal, and Vaudreuil had no alternative except to capitulate. By the terms of capitulation, which were drawn up, like those of Quebec, in French, Great Britain bound herself to allow the French Canadians the free exercise of their religion and certain specified fraternities. The same reservation was made with regard to the parochial clergy's titles. On February 10th, 1763, by the treaty of Paris, France ceded to Great Britain, Canada, with all its dependencies.

ISLE AUX NOIX AND THE WAR OF INDEPENDENCE.

We will now be obliged to pass over very briefly the events at Isle aux Noix during the struggle of the rebellion of the British colonies, known as "The War of Independence." The Canadian people stoutly repelled all overtures to cast in their lot with the thirteen colonies to the south. England had dealt very fairly with them as regards their religious beliefs, and the dread of the Puritanical sentiment of the New England people no doubt influenced them in their favor. The right of self-government they were claiming for themselves they denied the Canadians. Their congress determined that British power must be driven from the continent. With that object in view General Montgomery, in the autumn of 1775, headed an expedition, captured Isle aux Noix, the remaining forts on the Richelieu, and Montreal, held by Sir Guy Carleton, the then Governor. The advance on what was considered the key of Canada, Quebec, was successfully resisted, and the brave Montgomery paid the penalty of his rashness with his life. The invading forces retraced their steps pursued by Generals Bourgoyne and Carleton's forces to Montreal, and made their exit out of Canada by the Richelieu. Arnold continued at Quebec waiting forces for another assault, these failed him, and he retreated out of Canada by way of the Richelieu and Isle aux Noix, the following spring. By June 18th the American forces had entirely evacuated Canada. An invasion into the enemy's country began in 1777. Bourgoyne reached Saratoga, and, being completely surrounded and cut off from his supplies, surrendered on the 16th of October. The attitude of the New England Loyalists, the descendants of whom present must highly prize, reviled, persecuted, and robbed of their possessions, rather than renounce their allegiance, fled for protection to Canada. Many of those with families drew their supplies from the military posts till such time as lands could be awarded them out of the public domain. Vermont was the last to join the confederation of states (making the thirteenth). Its governor, Chittenden, as well as many of its most influential men, held back till Congress determined and were ready to send an armed force for their subjugation. Chittenden, Ethan and Ira Allen (the latter proved to be a selfish creature of no principle) offered their services as intercessaries, corresponded with the Canadian Governor and military authorities, and had repeated conferences with them on Isle aux Noix, which were abruptly terminated by the Canadian officials on vile proposals to them by Ira Allen.

THE LAST STRUGGLES AT THE ISLAND.

For many years the Imperial Government voted large sums of money to equip the fortress for a large garrison. Many of the first regiments in the Imperial service have occupied these magnificent quarters. Happily their vocation has been a peaceful one, and not eventful till the outbreak of the war of 1812-14, when it became mainly a naval station, and on the north end the lesser class of war vessels were constructed. From here went out on March 30th, 1814, under Captain Pring, of the Royal Navy, the sloop of war "Blake," and gun boats, to the mouth of Lacolle River, where Lieutenant Cheswick, R.N., had been transferring from his transports field pieces and stores to the feeble garrison, besieged in a stone mill and block house, under the command of Major Hancock and Lieut.-Col. Williams, of the 15th Regiment. Less than three hundred local militia and regulars were besieged by a United States force of over 5,000 veterans, under Gen. Wilkinson, U.S.A. The 13th Regiment of Royal Grenadiers, from Isle aux Noix and naval support, arrived in the nick of time to save the garrison, and drove the invaders back to the United States.

One other incident to the credit of Isle aux Noix occurred during this war. One calm and misty morning at daybreak two United States gunboats, the "Eagle" and "Growler," creeping cautiously towards the Island, were discovered and promptly sunk.

For eighty years the occupation of the shipwright has ceased. Over thirty years since, the guns bristling from these embrasures were removed to other quarters. The glittering splendor has disappeared, and the tramp of men to the strains of martial music is not now heard within these walls. The once brilliant social activities of gallant men and fair women have ceased, and indeed all the pomp and panoply of war have given place to the peace and quiet we find here now. On the north the tented field has been converted to the purposes of husbandry. The little military chapel where the saintly Stewart administered to the spiritual needs of the garrison has vanished. One saddening sight meets our eyes. Many, gallant men, who fought under Wellington, and perhaps Wolfe, rest peacefully in their graves. What changes in the interval in arts of war as well as of peace, would these men see, if their forms could arise and be rehabilitated.

The Federal Government is to be commended for reserving this spot, so replete with events in the history of our country, as a public park, and we have such admirable facilities for reaching it. Our kindred to the south of us, against whose aggressions these works were intended to protect us, have developed into a mighty and progressive nation, engaged in the pursuits of commerce and the arts. Let us fondly hope that no occasion will ever again arise to disturb the friendly relation now existing, but that both nations may go hand in hand in extending the arts of peace. May God's blessing rest upon both.

A BROME OCTOGENARIAN.

By ERNEST M. TAYLOR, July, 1899.

Lester Ball was born 28th of September, 1815, on the 6th lot of the 6th Range of the Township of Brome. The farm is now owned by Levi Shufeldt, of Brome.

Mr. Ball's grandfather, Jacob Ball, came from Dunham into Brome in 1800, having lived in Dunham six or seven years. He was born in Newfane, Vermont, in 1764, but settled in early manhood on South Hero Island, in Lake Chaplain. Here his son, afterwards known as Capt. James Ball, and the father of Lester Ball, was born in 1787.

The wife of the grandfather of Mr. Ball was a daughter of Capt. Ephraim Stone, who settled in Brome, where R. Edmund Miller now lives.

Capt. Ephraim Stone was not a United Empire Loyalist, but was a Revolutionary soldier, and was a lieutenant at Lexington and Bunker Hill. He was also at Ticonderoga. [See New Hampshire Revolutionary Rolls.]

He was born at Keene, New Hampshire. His son-in-law, Jacob Ball, was of a U. E. L. family, as were the Knowltons, who early settled in Brome.

Captain James Ball, father of Lester Ball, married his cousin Abigail Stone, daughter of Daniel Stone, who was also a Revolutionary soldier, and a corporal in Capt. Cole's company.

This Daniel Stone settled in Brome in 1799, on the farm now owned by Jerry Jackson.

On the second of September, 1839, now nearly sixty years ago, Lester Ball married Mary Ann Gilman.

They have had seven children, and after nearly sixty years both parents are living and each child also.

Mr. Lester Ball has, with the single exception of one year, until last autumn, lived in Brome Township. Last autumn he and his wife went to live with their son Ernest in New York City.

On the occasion of their departure their friends gave them a banquet at Eldridge's Hotel, Brome. Hon. Judge Lynch, President of the Brome County Historical Society, presided.

Several ministers were present, and other professional men took part in the formal leave taking of the esteemed friends.

Mr. Ball has been a farmer all his life. This did not prevent him from emulating the example of his father and other relatives when the Canadian Rebellion broke out. He served in 1837 as a sergeant in the infantry. The next year, 1838, he joined the cavalry as private under Capt. Alonzo Wood. He still holds his discharge. He holds a lieutenant's commission in a special company, commanded by Capt. Bullard.

Mr. Ball served as School Commissioner for twelve years, and was Chairman of the Board for eight years of the time.

He is one of the Charter members of the first Good Templars' Lodge formed in Brome.

He also joined the Sons of Temperance.

He has been a teetotaler throughout his long life.

Mr. Ball served his township as Bridge Inspector for two terms.

He is identified with the Church of England.

On his marriage day he made three vows:

1st. That his wife should never see him come home drunk.

2nd. That she should never hear him use profane language.

3rd. That neither she, nor his children, should they have any, would ever see him working on Sunday in any unnecessary way.

These he has been able to keep.

BOLTON PASS.

Mr. Lester Ball, when a young man, setting up sable traps, discovered the Bolton Pass as a suitable place through which to construct a road. He came over and told Capt. Paul H. Knowlton, who, with him, took it in hand. Col. Knowlton sent for Lindel Corey, land surveyor, living in Stanbridge. Col. Knowlton employed some men who, with the surveyor, all being under the guidance of Mr. Ball, went over to where the old Magog road enters the Bolton Pass at the Isman Coon place, and began the survey through the forest.

The first day they surveyed through as far as the Tub Factory, just above Knowlton Village. Mr. Ball was then near his own home, and he then lived on the highland farm near where the Knowlton reservoir is now situated. This place is the 11th lot of the 11th range at Brome.

His father, Capt. James Ball, then lived on the north side of Cold Brook, opposite the factory. The farm is now owned by Israel England & Sons.

Capt. James Ball settled on that farm in 1817, when the subject of our sketch was two years old.

The second day the surveying party started out from the point of the termination of the previous day, and that night they camped beside a spring near the place on which Mr. Edward Owens's house now stands.

The third day the party completed the necessary survey, and reached Parker Gilman's place, now called Gilman Corner, where they again struck the old Magog Road, which had been constructed many years before, and which had been followed by the waggoners from Stanstead via. Coppe's Ferry, Georgeville, to and from Montreal, these processions of waggoners doing the work now done by the railway freight trains.

On the evening of that day Mr. Ball remembers walking over to Knowlton, via Brome Corner, and reporting all to Col. Knowlton, with whom he took supper that night.

The surveyor, Mr. Corey, soon after made out his process verbal and placed it in the hands of Col. Knowlton:

Col. Knowlton was then member of the Legislative Council of the Province, then of Lower Canada, and he succeeded in getting a grant from the Government for the construction of the road. This was about sixty years ago. A few years passed, however, after the survey before the work of construction was begun.

Mr. Brooks, who in later years married the widow of the well-known Seneca Page, was the contractor.

Capt. James Ball was the superintendent of the work.

As an instance of the conditions of life and energy of early days in this country, Mr. Ball states that when he was young one of the neighboring women died, leaving a new-born infant of the name of Anna Johnson, and when the child was ten days old, Mrs. Ball the mother of Mrs. Lester Ball, took the baby on horseback, and following "spotted, or blazed" trees, went through to Shefford Plain, and thence through Granby Township on to Yamaska Mountain, now called Abbotsford. This she accomplished in one day, having to ford many streams on the way, as bridges were unknown to the early settler. The distance travelled was above thirty miles. She safely delivered the child that night to the tender care of a Mrs. Crossfield, of Yamaska Mountain. A goodly number of the name of Crossfield are now residing there.

Mr. Ball is as active on his feet now as the average man of thirty years of age. He is visiting friends in and about Brome for a few weeks this summer. His cheerful face and buoyant disposition make him an ever-welcome guest.

[Since writing the above Mrs. Ball has died. Mr. Ball is still in good health.—E. M. T.]

HANNAH EMERSON DUSTON, BY COL. PATTEN.

On the fifteenth of March, Sixteen Hundred and Ninety-Seven, a party of Indians swooped down in their fashion upon the farmhouse of Thomas Duston, in the parish of Kingston, near Haverhill.

The attack was so unexpected and fierce that the farmer had only time to seize his gun, mount his horse and by incredible skill so manage as to protect his seven terrified children in a retreat before the enemy to a place of safety.

The other members of the family, Mrs. Duston, a new-born baby, and a neighbor, Mary Neff, were left behind to the mercy of savages. Mrs. Duston was Hannah Emerson, whose ancestors came to Hampton, in New Hampshire, among the earliest settlers, and from which the Emersons of Sutton are supposed to be descended in a direct line. The story of that terrible march through the wilderness, the murder of the child of Mrs. Duston, the encampment on the Merrimack, near Concord, and the massacre of the sleeping Indians by the desperate mother, and a boy who escaped at midnight in a canoe down the Merrimack, bringing the Indian scalps with them, is well known.

Two full sized statues have been erected of Mrs. Duston, one near her old home, the Emerson Estate, near Haverhill, and one where the Indian Camp once stood, by the State of New Hampshire.

Upon the pedestal there is this inscription :—

HEROUM GESTA
FIDES-JUSTITIA.
HANNAH DUSTON,
MARCH 30, 1697,
MIDNIGHT.

On the opposite side are these words:—

MARCH,
15—1697—30.

THE WAR-WHOOP, TOMAHAWK, FAGOT AND INFANTICIDES WERE AT HAVERHILL.

THE ASHES OF THE CAMP-FIRES AT NIGHT AND TEN OF THE TRIBE ARE HERE.

The traveller passing over the Northern Division of the Boston and Maine Railroad, a few miles above Concord, at Penacook, can catch a view of the statue of Hannah Emerson Duston.

NOTES.

It has been usually conceded that Josiah Skinner made the first permanent settlement in Potton, on the old Elkins' farm, near the Frontier. Nicholas Austin, about that time, made a break in the forest on the shore of Lake Memphremagog, on land now owned by Mr. D. G. Perkins. But this he abandoned for land in Bolton, at what has been called Austin's Bay.

The date 1785 which appears on the Bolton monumental stone has been called in question as it is believed that Austin did not really effect a settlement at that point until later. It is, however, declared that he made at this time his first foot journey to Quebec and erected a lodge or hut at this place for his convenience when travelling through the wilderness. It is certain that he brought his family to Canada in the winter of 1793.

A settlement was made in Sutton by two men together, Thomas Spencer and his brother-in-law, Alexander Griggs, as early as April 1792. This was ten years before there were any Government grants of land in Sutton. Thus Sutton began to be settled at about the same time as the other Townships of the County. When grants were really made, there were many settlers, as, at that time, there were one hundred and seventy who received settlers' grants.
